Why (should) Anthropologists Make Maps and How

Why and when might making maps be useful for the ethnographer? How can we leverage GIS technologies for doing fieldwork? What are the challenges? In this brownbag, I will review some use cases and summarize the take-aways. I will then give an overview of tools and strategies for map making with GIS.

Claudia Engel is an Academic Technology Specialist at the Department of Anthropology and affiliate of the Center for Interdisciplinary Digital Research (CIDR) at the Stanford University Libraries.

MONDAY
October 22nd, 2018
12:30 - 1:20pm
Building 50, 51A